BISHOP SIMPSON.

Beautiful Picture of His Life and Death as Painted by Rev. C. W. Savidge.

The following sermon upon the life and death of Bishop Simpson, was preached by Rev. C. W. Savidge in the First M E. church Sanday morning:

TRXT—I James, 2:12.—"My Father, My Father, the Chariot of Israel and the Horsemen Thereof,"

Subject-"Life and Character of BISHOP SIMPSON,"

Three thousand years ago two of God's great prophets were walking near the Jordan, when the chariot and horses of fire came down and took Elijah up to Heaven. And Elisha, beholding the wonderful sight exclaimed "My Father, my Father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof!" And on the 18th of the present month, when the chariot of God descended and took away the sainted man of whom we speak to-day, the church triumphant gave shouts of praises: but the church militant exclaimed with the old prophet, Elisha, "My Father, my Father, the chariot of Israel and horsemen thereof!" Three thousand years ago two of God's great First let us glance at the life and death of

It is a source of gratitude to all that the Bishop was spared till the close of the general conference, which met in the city of his own residence. He was present at the opening of the conference and pronounced the benediction at its along. Then too the church said of and to Bishop asleep in christ.

The funeral services were held in Philadelphia on the afternoon of June 24. The service was participated in by nine tishops. Bishop Foster preaching the sermon, Bishops Bowman and Fowler making short addresses. He was burried on June 25th in South Laurel Hill cemetery.

Secondly—Let us glance at the character of this great leader in the church.

He was a great man. When in repose his appearance did not mark him as a great man but when he stood up to speak and especially when preaching his whole appearance and manner told the story of his greatness. Another proof of his greatness is the position he held sunshine.

He was a patriot, As seen in the long list of distinguished services rendered to the state. He was a personal friend and adviser of more than one of the presidents. His speeches during the war will never be forgotten.

He was a great orator. He was an orator

No man doubted that he was an orator who heard him pronounce the funeral oration over the body of Abraham Lincoln. And the meeting at Exeter hall, London, in memory of Garfield was thrilled by his wonderful words. It is said that a great writer Brist read a chaste and beautiful as well as appropriate composition, then Bishop Sumpson aroser and then the personality of the orator began to be felt that vast audience arose as one man and were swayed as the branches of a tree in a storm by the powerful orator.

He was the very prince of preachers. Dr. He was the very prince of preachers. Dr. He was the very prince of preachers. Dr. Buckley says he saw an audience at Manchester, New Hampanire, in 1859, fused into one mass by the white heat of his eloquence. An infidel of superior mind was present, and the tears flowed down his face, and the whole man was intensely moved. "Are you convinced?" said Dr. Buckly to the infidel. "No," he replied, "but I cannot resist the power of the man."

Those who heard him at St. Paul, Minnes ta, when the frosts of more than seventy win-ters had silvered his locks, declared that he was the very prince of preachers. He is now safe with God.

"Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's done;
The battle's fought, the race is wou,
And thou art crowned at last."

He has left us an example in devotion and in faithful service. May we each be true to the trusts committed to us.

On the same night Wright's general merchandise store was entered and about $125 worth of goods, con isting of clothing, boots and shees, hats and caps, etc., were taken. The burglars filled their pockets with filberts, and after they had walked quite a disthey sat down and ate part of them. They kept on eating them after they continued their journey, and dropped the shucks along their path. He was a member of the general conference as early as 1844. He was elected a delegate to the Irish and British conference in 1857, and to the Evangelical Alliance in Berlin the same year.

He was a great traveller. He was elected and consecrated Bishop in 1852; and an eminent writer has said, "He has no peer, within the memory of men now living, among the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church."

He died on the 16th of June, 1884. Had he lived two days longer he would have been 73 years old. onsignee; the other was marked $220. Another small wallet was found containing $8.05. A third search was instituted, but no more money was brought to light. It oppears that both men had become intoxicated on Sunday and spent their money very freely. What is curious is that each one accuses the other of having spent his money. Kincaid's funds grew so short that he pawned his watch to obtain the necessary yesterday.

Where Lennon could have gotten the amount of money named in the envelopes, is also a query. He has always been looked upon as a man of very limto spend the whole day on the grounds. He was a great orator. He was an orator in spite of obvious defects. One author says his voice was not good, as it usually sounded a shrill monotone which would be pronounced by any critic in oratory utterly incompartible with eloquence. Yet he was eloquent in spite of the critics.

No man doubted that he was an orator who Ostroit Free Press. The train was just entering Erin Tenn. when we heard the sharp toot! toot! toot! of the whistle, and such passengers as looked from the window saw an aged African with a bundle over his shoulde straight ahead on the track. The whist le was blown and the bell rung, but he paid no attention, and all of a sudden the cow-catcher picked him up and flung him fifty feet to one side. A gang of men brought the body to the depot, and among the dozen of us who stopped off at the village a Coroner's jury was selected. It seemed a plain enough case. The man came to his death by being struck by a locomotive on the L. & N. 10ad. Such was the verdict rendered, but no sooner was announced than the Coroner observed.
